

Brent White

Yesterday at 6:42pm · 🌐

I had the great pleasure of seeing August: Osage County at The City Theater in Austin Thursday night. LocalGBT peeps you'll recognize are Robyn Gammill, Terri Merritt Bennett, and Steve Lawson. If you are looking for some comedy entertainment, then skip this one. Don't even drive down Airport Blvd. during a show. But if you want to climb on to a roller coaster of intense drama, then it's a must see. It's a very large cast, and they all turn in exceptional performances. One of the characters our Robyn Gammill interacts with extensively is played by Robyn Conner. Maybe it's something about being named Robyn, but these two turn in award worthy performances. Jaw dropping. You'll go to bed thinking about it and wake up the next day thinking about it. This is a powerful play written by Tracy Letts. Every show I've seen at The City Theater has impressed me but, this one exceeds all others. Andy Berkovsky, the director and artistic director of the theater, really shines in this production. It's a long play, and Mr. Berkovsky kept me on the edge of my seat for the duration. It runs through August 13th. If you are only going to see one show this season, this is the one. GO SEE THIS PLAY!